

Adrianna Boucher:

My name is Adrianna Boucher and I am currently a third year DPT student at the University of the Sciences. My hometown is Hamilton, NJ where I was born and raised. Fitness, health and nutrition have always been my passion as I have incorporated these variables into every day practice, especially with physical therapy. I enjoy yoga, reading, running, lifting weights and going to the beach. I plan to become a sports certified specialist, as well as a strength and conditioning specialist working with athletics across the spectrum. I have been a part of the PPTA for two years now as an Eastern District Rep. This program has taught me valuable connections through the constant growing field of physical therapy, ability to connect with other schools and students, and become involved with APTA's most reliable conferences. I'm hoping to continue changing lives through my passion of physical rehabilitation and movement!

Rosa Winslow:

My name is Rosa Winslow. I am in my last year of the Doctorate of Physical Therapy Program at Duquesne University. This is my second year as a Western District Representative and I have truly enjoyed my role. My responsibilities include planning local social and service opportunities for students and professionals in our field. A little about me, I am from Pittsburgh and support all of my hometown sports. In the future, I would like to specialize in pediatrics.

Valerie Iovine:

"Hello! My name is Valerie Iovine. I am in my second year of Drexel's DPT Program and loving it! I am a strong believer that everything happens for a reason. I have encountered a decent summary of the musculoskeletal injuries due to a connective tissue disorder, but I would not have it any other way. If I were not in and out of physical therapy myself, I would have never developed my passion to help others the way I have needed and can appreciate the difference that physical therapy can make in a person's life! I think that my experiences with this has helped me develop a sense of compassion too. Outside of PT, I love to craft, go to the beach with my (huge) family and adventure Philadelphia with my friends!"

Annie McClain:

Hello! My name is Annie McClain and I am the Central District Representative for the PPTA Student Board. I am in the DPT program at Lebanon Valley College where I am also a class representative and play on the softball team. I am from a small town in Maryland where my family and I raise chickens and cows. I have always wanted to work as a health care professional since I was a little girl. I decided that I wanted to be a PT when I was 14 years old and my love for physical therapy has grown ever since. I am excited to take on any challenges and opportunities that comes with the Central District Representative position!

Ashley Evans:

I am from Pittsburgh, PA and am completing my second and final year of PTA school at CCAC (Community College of Allegheny County) Boyce Campus in Monroeville. I am the President of the Class of 2020 as well as the only student to serve on the CCAC Board of Trustees. I am active in the community with volunteering and service and I love working out!

Lorrain Ko:

I get the honor to serve as this year's Secretary. I am a third year student at USciences in Philadelphia. Although I was born and raised in Los Angeles, CA I've found home in Philly due to its great sense of community. My other passions and hobbies outside of PT include climbing, and attempting to surf, or anything that gets my body moving!

Kennedy Chukwuocha:

Hello my name is Kennedy Chukwuocha. I was born in Nigeria and moved to New Jersey when I was about 3 years old. My career as a Division I and II collegiate basketball player made me very familiar with Sport medicine. As a third-year DPT student at Thomas Jefferson University, I get to enjoy a true appreciation of "both sides of the treatment table." I hope to leverage my interpersonal, professional, and clinical skills to promote and progress the Physical Therapy profession forward.

Hannah Mack:

Hi, my name is Hannah Mack, I am a 2nd year at Thomas Jefferson University. I grew up in a small town called Pennsburg PA and I am excited to serve on the PPTA Student Section to connect with students and provide great opportunities to serve the profession and the community together.

Kelly Quigley:

Hi! My name is Kelly Quigley, and I am a current 2nd year PT student at Thomas Jefferson University. I am originally from New Jersey and completed my undergraduate at the University of Delaware. Outside of school, I enjoy reading, spending time outside, and attending Philadelphia sports events! I am excited to serve as a part of the PPTA Student Section to continue to communicate with students, initiate change and promote the profession of physical therapy.
